Turn Right at the Dancing Cow tells the story of Seattleite Maggie Josiah and African Hospitality Institute, the vocational school she founded and directs in Uganda. This travelogue adventure, told through the eyes of her friend and fundraising coach, John Shimer, exposes the plight of Ugandans grasping tenuously for survival and hope, but also demonstrates the very real power of practical education to transform the lives of Uganda's "lost children." Carrying her own scars, but also the light of absolute faith and real world knowledge, Maggie Josiah takes on the forces ruling "the darkest place on the planet" and wins.

Author John Shimer's Angels Among Us Project encourages communities to identify and share stories of hometown human angels like Maggie Josiah, who selflessly give to uplift others. "I've become an angel seeker," Shimer says. "I want to recruit an army of angel seekers."
